DETAILED ACTION

RESPONSE TO RECONSIDERATION

1. This office action is in response to Applicant's request for reconsideration received on Feb. 18, 2004.
2. Previous rejections are sustained in the prior office action dated Feb. 18, 2004, paper number 4.
3. Examiner has carefully read Applicant's request and has respectfully found the arguments unpersuasive for the reasons cited below.

Applicant asserts that the present invention is a standardized contract on page 2. Likewise, the May reference asserts the standardized contract in no uncertain terms: col 9, L 30-33.

An exchange that guarantees payment is equivalent to the credit officers that perform credit control or any other functions, including acting as guarantors, in view of: col 56, L 23-28 and col 16, L 10-16. Brokerage firms co insure client accounts under Federal agencies and an exchange could easily guarantee payment through insurance coverage or by setting up a reserve for such events.

The May reference encompasses a very broad range of financial contract activities (fig 2:all) of which the credit function is but one aspect. Applicant's system is also bilateral (in fact, multi-lateral) as between the seller and exchange and between seller and buyer and between buyer and exchange. May has a central processing center in fig 1(10) that acts as an exchange along with a proxy agent, which is another intermediary: col 15, L 15-42

Applicant must also select parameters for his IRS contract, including maturity, size of principal amount, which interest rate curve to use and risk aversion profile of client and credit risk of the buyer or seller of the IRS.

Applicant should note that the "forum" as he states on page 4 is a trading system for financial instruments, including IRS's: col 17, L 54 to col 18, L 11.
